GORHAM — William B. Bragdon, 96, former mayor of Westbrook and retired official of the S.D. Warren Co., died yesterday at a Windham nursing home after a long illness.

A lifelong Republican, Mr. Bragdon was Westbrook mayor in 1919 and served three terms in the Maine Legislature. He was chairman of the Westbrook centennial celebration in 1914.

He was born in South Windham June 25, 1868, son of Jacob and Augusta Bragdon. He had lived most of his life in Westbrook.

He began working at Cumberland Mills in 1882 when he was 15 and retired from the S. D. Warren Co. 50 years later. He was general manager of the electrical department at the mill and invented a weather-proof socket. This proved profitable enough to put his children through college.

NOBLEBORO — Roland L. Bragg, 75, a building mover and sawmill operator who saw considerable action during World War II, died of cancer Tuesday at his home on Old Route 1.

Mr. Bragg was an Army paratrooper in Europe, serving in a unit which had the job of jumping into enemy territory and clearing the way for others. He was awarded a Silver Star and the Purple Heart and was captured briefly by the Germans, said his daughter, Linda French. "The only reason he got away was that he was a Mason," she said. "The German soldier was a fellow Mason. The guy said, 'hit me over the head and take off,' and he did and took off with an ambulance."

Mr. Bragg drove the ambulance through enemy fire to safety. "They were being fired at the whole time they went," said his daughter. "He never knew if any of the other Americans in the ambulance survived until a few years ago. He got a call from someone who was in the ambulance. The guy found out about him and called from out of state. At that point my father started talking more to us about his war experience. It opened up a dam."

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

After the war he married Barbara Picinich, whose father, Ballantine Picinich, was a catcher for the Boston Red Sox. Picinich died during the war, so the Braggs took over the family farm after the war.

Mr. Bragg later owned his own body shop and also ran Nobleboro Building Movers for 25 years.

Since retiring in 1984 he ran a portable sawmill.

Born in Sabattus, a son of Calvin and Ella Stevens Bragg, he graduated from Waldoboro High School in 1943.

As a boy during the Depression he helped pay the family mortgage by peddling vegetables the family raised on their farm to wealthy people around the coast. As a young man he also worked for the family business, Calvin L. Bragg and Sons, a repair garage off Old Route 1.

Mr. Bragg was a former master of the Nobleboro Grange, a member of the Damariscotta American Legion, a 32nd degree Mason, a 50-year member of King Solomon's Lodge of Masons and a former Nobleboro selectman.

Surviving are his wife, Barbara A. Bragg of Nobleboro; three daughters, Linda French of South Portland, Debra S. Townsend of Nobleboro and Diane L. Watts of Bangor; three brothers, Calvin L. Roy Jr. of Waldoboro, Thomas C. of Augusta and Norman H. of Jefferson; a sister, Almeda Collins of Almo, Nev., and 11 grandchildren.

Visiting hours will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday at Hall Funeral Home, Waldoboro. A Masonic service will be held at 7 p.m. during visiting hours. A funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the funeral home with Rev. David Clark officiating. Burial will be in Dunbar Cemetery.
