Norway, Sept. 23.—Edward H. Brown, 51, retired professor of agriculture at the University of New Hampshire, died in his Winter Street home tonight of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to Dr. D. M. Stewart, South Paris, Oxford County medical examiner, who issued a verdict of death by suicide.

Brown was found slumped in the seat of his car, a Bible in his lap and a hose leading from the exhaust through the window of the car, by his wife, Muriel, when she returned home from work. Efforts of the Norway Fire Department, working with a pump-motor and a Central Maine Power Company respirator for more than two hours, failed to revive him.

Mrs. Brown told investigators she became alarmed when she did not find her husband in the house after she returned from the Norway National Bank at 4 p. m., and went looking for him.

George Cordwell, proprietor, and Miss Irene Nevers, clerk of a grocery store across from the Brown home, said the garage doors were open and the car motor had stopped running when they were called to the scene by Mrs. Brown. They said they detected a faint pulse on the victim and immediately notified Dr. Walter Dixon, Norway, and the fire department.

Brown was graduated from the University of Maine in 1920 and taught vocational agriculture in the high school here until 1945 when he was named to the faculty at the University of New Hampshire. He returned to the faculty of the high school for a brief time last year, but was forced by ill health to retire before the school year ended.

He was born at Bethel, Nov. 17, 1895, the son of Frank A. and Alice Anagia Brown and was graduated from Gould Academy in 1914. He was employed for a while as overseer on a farm owned by Prof. William R. Chapman of Portland.

He was born in Phippsburg on Oct. 31, 1919, a son of Arthur and Mary Daughty Brown, and was educated in Bath schools.

On July 13, 1941, he married Barbara T. Kerwin of Bath. This past July, they celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

He was employed for more than 25 years in the Pneumatic Department at Bath Iron Works. He worked his way up from passer boy to first class riveter. Like the other workers, he was proud to serve his country putting in many hours of overtime building the destroyers that were used in World War II.

In addition to his full-time job, he held a variety of part-time jobs, which included working for two Bath contractors, being a call fireman at the Bath Fire Department and becoming a licensed plumber.

He coached Little League Baseball and was a deacon and Sunday school teacher at Corliss Street Baptist Church, which he and his family attended. He was also a proud lifetime member of the Polar Star Lodge of Masons No. 114. He also enjoyed duck and deer hunting.

In spite of his busy work life, family came first, as did the grandchildren and great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. One time he was asked by a co-worker friend why he worked so hard. His answer was, "To give Barbara and the children the things I didn't have."

He was described by many as a "people" person. He made friends easily and valued each and every friendship.

After he retired in 1972, he enjoyed reading and gardening. He also enjoyed playing cribbage whether at home, at the Bath Senior Citizen Center or the Moorings, a Senior Citizen project in Bath. He always brought his own cribbage board and cloth carrier, which was personally made for him.

He was predeceased by two brothers, Arthur and Raymond; two sisters, Hazel Davis and Madelyn Darling; as well as a beloved granddaughter, Wendy Pooler.

Surviving are his wife of 65 years; two sons, Larry W. Brown and his wife, Reba Smith, of Harlem, Ga., and Michael C. Brown and his wife, Carol Black, of Phippsburg; two daughters, Cheryl A. Pooler and her husband, Bruce, of West Bath and Kathy M. Burgess and her husband, Samuel Burgess II, of Phippsburg; nine grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

North Haven, Dec. 14—Foy W. Brown, 50, member of the Knox County Commissioners' board for the last eight years, operator of a boat shop and marine railway here and custodian during the winter season of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's power cruiser Mouett, died suddenly today aboard the steamship Talamanca, according to a message received by members of the family.

Brown, who had been suffering from heart trouble for some time, was returning from a vacation trip on which he had visited Cuba and had also visited a son, Paul, who is in the Army in the Canal Zone.

In addition to his boat-building industry he had for several seasons operated a craft for the accommodation of summer residents between North Haven and Rockland. He had served the town as clerk and selectman, he was a director of the First National Bank, Rockland, and he was affiliated with the Masonic bodies, including the Knights Templar Commandery at Vinalhaven, the Rockland Lodge of Elks and Rockland Lions' Club.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Winona Brown; his mother, Mrs. J. O. Brown; two sisters, the Misses Vonie and Doris Brown; two sons, Paul and James, the latter a resident of Springfield, Mass., and two daughters, the Misses Ivaloo and Doris.
