James Russell Carver Jr. 11/12/97

strong, resourceful farmer; loved to hunt

LINCOLNVILLE — James Russell Carver Jr., who died Thursday at age 72, stitched together a rich life with green baling twine and whatever else was handy.

Born to James Russell Carver Sr. and Jennie Hardy Carver in 1927, Mr. Carver was raised on the family farm on Youngstown Road.

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

When just 12, he found himself being chased across a field by his uncle's bull, forced to scramble onto a pile of 4-foot logs. He hefted one of the logs and stopped the bull in its tracks with a whack between the horns.

"He was a strong boy. He was strong right up to today," said Barbara Barrett Carver, his wife of 45 years as well as his farming partner and hunting companion.

His handling of the bull, who recovered within a few days, was an early hint to Mr. Carver's lifelong credo: Use what's at hand to do what's necessary. It served him well when, after serving in the Navy during World War II, he eventually bought Valley Farm, a dairy farm in Hope.

"A piece of baling twine used to mend a lot of things: tie up (the cows') drinking cups and hold together a door, kind of temporary hinging," his wife said. "He could fix about anything ... and he always managed to take care of his sick cows, as a general rule. He knew how to roll up his sleeve and wash his arm off in a little alcohol and go fishing for a calf."

Mr. Carver met his future wife on a bitterly cold night at a friend's New Year's Eve party. It was so cold, she recalled, that when he pressed on the rim of her car's steering wheel to blow the horn, it snapped off.

"I guess he felt indebted, so he called me the next day and it just kind of started out," she said. They were married in 1954.

The couple loved to hunt together, and were quite successful bagging deer on the mountains surrounding their farm, although she suspected they would have done better had they not been so taken by the scenery. Mr. Carver's last buck was his best, his wife said.

"He would get up and have his slippers on, not get totally dressed, just shove on a shirt and run out to the mailbox and get the morning paper," she recalled. One morning three years ago, he looked up and spotted two deer in the field across the road, one of them a 10-point buck. He scooted inside quickly, grabbed his rifle and without hesitating to get properly dressed, had his deer.

"That was the beginning of a good winter's meat supply," she said. The deer was fondly remembered as the boudoir buck.

Mr. Carver was a bit skeptical in 1988 when his new neighbor, a woman from away with a lilting British accent, announced she intended to help the couple with the farm. But Elizabeth O'Haverty was raised on the British island of Jersey, ancestral home of the Carvers, and she came to be a close family friend. She also worked every day with Barbara Carver to raise beef stock and replacement heifers after Mr. Carver had a heart attack in 1991 and sold his dairy herd.

"He and Barbara have both for the past 10 years been an incredible influence on my life," O'Haverty said. "He was one of the people they don't make anymore. He was cast in his own mold, as many of the old Mainers were. Jim never got homogenized. He was his own guy."

Mr. Carver was a charter member of the Hatchet Mountain Sno-Riders Club, developing many of the trails near his home. He was also a Mason and this year received his 50-year pin from the Lincolnville Masonic Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, of Lincolnville; one daughter, Linda Dahmen Pearse; and four sisters, Lucille Masalin, Hope Tibbetts, Doris Delano and Winifred Marriner.

A graveside service will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday in Hope Grove Cemetery, Hatchet Mountain Road, Hope. Arrangements are by Laite and Pratt Funeral Home, Camden.

BRUNSWICK - Kenneth H. 'Doc' Carver, 91, of 14A Dunning Street, died Saturday, Oct. 26, 2002 at Parkview Hospital after a lengthy but courageous battle with illness. He was born in Brunswick, a son of Frank E. and Hattie V. Hartford Carver on April 21, 1911. He attended Lewiston schools and graduated from Jordan High School in 1927. Upon graduation, he moved to Plainville, Conn., where he was employed by Trumbull Electric. While there, he met and married his wife, Beatrice Cowles. They then moved back to Maine and shortly before World War II moved to Quoddy Village, where he was a machine shop foreman for the Quoddy Youth Project which was originated by President Roosevelt. Eleanor Roosevelt visited the project many times and acknowledged his fine work. When the war started, he moved back to Lewiston and became employed by Bath Iron Works, North American Philips, and Bates Mill for many years. In 1951, he moved his family to South Portland, where he managed the Mill Cove Apartments. They then moved to Brunswick in 1952, where he and his wife managed the Brunswick Apartments for 25 years until his retirement in 1976. During the time his father was Chief of Police in Topsham, Kenneth served on the force at the Topsham Fairgrounds and did private detective work for various agencies. Kenneth was an avid reader, and through his vast knowledge of medicine became known as 'Doc' to many of his friends. He loved to tell stories, enjoyed a good argument, yet maintained a great sense of humor. One of his most cherished assets was his Siamese cat, Little Boy. As well as a self taught organist, he was an accomplished drummer and for many years had a band that played for dances in the Brunswick area during the 1950's and 1960's. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and had recently received a 50 year membership pin. Besides his beloved wife Beatrice of 69 years, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Edward (Gwendolyn) Chadburn of Sabattus, a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Carole) Nelson of Cape Elizabeth; granddaughter, Laura Marston of Canton; and four great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by a daughter, Beverly, in 1963. There will be no visiting hours. Graveside services will be conducted at Gracelawn Memorial Park in Auburn on Thursday, Oct. 31, at 1:30 p.m. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in his name to: The Coastal Humane Society 30 Range Road, Brunswick, Maine 04011. Harry L. Carville, gifted machinist, avid gardener 2/3/00

YORK — Harry Linwood Carville of Old Post Road, a gifted machinist and gardener, died March 2, 2000, at York Hospital. He was 95.

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in lasting ways.

He was born in Lisbon, one of 12 children of Harry and Elizabeth Hoyle Carville. His father died when he was young, and he spent most of his time helping to run the family farm and working to support his family. He lived in Lisbon until 1927 and attended local schools there.

As a young man, he worked as an apprentice to a machinist, and it was there that he found his calling. "He had a natural bent for fixing things," said his daughter-in-law,

Jean Carville.

From 1926 to 1939, Mr. Carville was a machinist for Andrews Machine Shop in Auburn. In 1939 he moved with his family to York and began working at the Kittery Naval Shipyard. With his talent, his family said, it took Mr. Carville just weeks to move from machinist third class to machinist first class.

In 1946, Mr. Carville became a mechanic at Blaisdell Chevrolet, where he was highly respected for his work, his family said. He returned to the Kittery Shipyard in 1950 and began working as an estimator and planner for the construction of submarines. According to his family, he was recognized several times for his development of innovative engineering procedures. "Many times he would come up with an idea that was better than what was in the blueprints," his daughter-in-law said. According to his family, some of Mr. Carville's ideas have become standard practice in submarine production.

He retired in 1966.

Mr. Carville was known for using his mechanical and carpentry gifts to help others. His family recalled how he often built furniture for them. "Once he got on a project — boy, oh boy. He had to get it done and done right," said his son, Linwood Carville. "If anyone had anything that had to be done, he was right in the middle of it."

Mr. Carville loved gardening and enjoyed sharing his huge vegetable and flower garden with others. He even created a tractor from old Ford and Dodge truck parts and would delight his grandchildren by giving them rides around his garden.

But Mr. Carville especially enjoyed sharing his garden with a young neighbor, Andy Masella. The two struck up a friendship in 1961 and "pretty soon the two of them were talking garden all the time," said Mr. Carville's son. "It was amazing to see this guy 90 and this kid 12, and they were just the best of friends." Mr. Carville set aside a piece of his garden for the youngster and together they spent the last several years working on the land. Mr. Carville quickly became a mentor and a surrogate grandfather to the boy.

"Even though there were 80 years difference in their ages, they could sit and have the most wonderful conversation," said Linda Masella, Andy Masella's mother.

Mr. Carville was a friend and neighbor to the entire Masella family, she said.

He enjoyed hunting and fishing and was a member of the Masons.

His wife of 65 years, Katherine McGorman Carville, died in 1992.

Surviving are a son, Linwood of Orono; a daughter, Eleanor Todd of Cape Neddick; six sisters, Eva Pillsbury and Florence Brewer, both of Lisbon Falls; Ruth Berry of Litchfield; Dorothy Walker of Sabbathus; and Geneva Hartford and Edna Foote, both of Lewiston; a brother, Albert of Lisbon; and four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Visiting hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at Lucas-Eaton Funeral Home, 91 Long Sands Road, where a Masonic service will be at 4:30 p.m. A funeral will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Cape Neddick Baptist Church, River Road, Cape Neddick. The Rev. Judson Stone will officiate. Burial will be in First Parish Cemetery.
