Judge Carroll S. Chaplin, Portland's Last Mayor, Dies

Judge Carroll S. Chaplin, 71, of the Cumberland Probate Court died suddenly of a heart ailment Sunday morning at his summer home, Hannaford's Cove, Cape Elizabeth.

Judge Chaplin was Portland's last mayor before the city manager form of government was adopted in 1926.

In 1928 he won an eight-man race for election as probate judge and had been re-elected every four years since.

His Portland residence was at 125 Western Promenade.

Judge Chaplin, widely-known in Republican circles in the 1920's, was a recognized authority on probate matters. Many judges and lawyers sought him out over the years for advice.

Judge Chaplin was first elected mayor of Portland in 1922, serving four years.

Judge Carroll S. Chaplin

PRIOR TO his election as mayor, Judge Chaplin served two years in the Common Council, two years as alderman and one year as city solicitor.

He was born in Portland, April 28, 1882, son of Ashbel and Huldah Peabody Chaplin.

He was graduated from Portland High School in 1900 and from the University of Maine four years later. While at Maine he was a member of the varsity track and relay teams, belonged to the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and the Phi Kappa Phi honorary society and was the valedictorian of his class.

In 1923 the University of Maine conferred on him the degree of Master of Arts.

He got his start in the study of law with the late former Gov. Henry B. Cleaves.

He also attended Harvard Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1908.

After his graduation from the University of Maine and during the time he was reading law, Judge Chaplin was an instructor in Portland High School. That was from 1904 to 1907 and he ended his teaching experience a year before he became a practicing attorney.

He was associated, also, for some years with the late Guy H. Sturgis, Supreme Judicial Court Justice. Justice Sturgis died in 1951.

Until his death he was the senior member of Chaplin, Burkett and Knudsen, Portland law firm.

Judge Chaplin was active in local financial circles and was a member of the board of directors and counsel of the Trust Department of the National Bank of Commerce. He also was president of the Maine Savings and Loan Association and an incorporator of the Maine Savings Bank.

HE WAS A MEMBER of the Portland Club, president of the Board of Trustees of Portland Public Library for 15 years, and was chairman of the executive committee of the Fraternity Club, of which he was a member for a score of years.
