Friends attended the funeral services held today at his home on ince. The following Monday when the party was a short distance from Grand Falls late in the afternoon as they were rounding a sharp blind turn the car overturned.

Mr. Clay was seriously injured, suffering a compound fracture of the leg. He was removed to a hospital at ducted successfully.

Robert Edmund Clayton

ISLESBORO (Dec 18): Robert Edmund Clayton, 92, of Pinehurst, N.C. and Islesboro, died Nov. 24, 2005, Thanksgiving Day, at home in Pinehurst from natural causes.

Mr. Clayton was born in Boston, Mass. He was raised in Hudson, Mass., Hannibal, Mo., and Rock Island, Ill. He earned a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from the State University of Iowa.

After two years in chemicals at Naugatuck Chemical Co. in Naugatuck, Conn., and five years in rubber reclaiming at Pequannoc Rubber Co. in Butler, N.J., he spent the remainder of his career at Exxon Mobil Corp., known at the time as Esso. He worked mainly at Exxon Research and Engineering Co. in Linden, N.J., focusing on rubbery polymers and plastics made from petroleum raw materials and earning the title of research associate.

His research and inventions contributed significantly to the war effort during World War II, when sources of natural rubber were not under Allied control. He was the originator of 27 U.S. patents and a member of the American Chemical Society.

He was proud of accomplishing much without an advanced degree. He put himself through college by playing saxophone and clarinet in dance bands. He played music most of his adult life, and the clarinet was under his bed when he died. He also enjoyed sailing, bridge, dancing and above all golf, making a hole-in-one at the age of 80 and playing regularly until nearly 90. He also introduced many friends and relatives to the pleasures of a summer home on Islesboro, which had been built by his own grandfather.

On Islesboro he was a Mason, belonging to Island Lodge No. 89 and playing sax in the Charlie Pendleton Band as often as he was on the island. He had a long and interesting life and will be greatly missed by those who loved him.

He was predeceased in 1979 by his wife of 39 years, Jean; and in 2005, by his wife of 25 years, Grace.

He is survived by his children, Ann Bjork (Lyle) of Seattle, Wash., Robert of Islesboro, and Philip (Isabelle) of Brussels, Belgium; Robert Smith (Barbara) of Novi, Mich., Richard Smith (Louise) of Nassau, N.H., Grace's son by a previous marriage; six grandchildren; one great-grandson; two children of Robert and Barbara Smith; two sisters, Doris Wenos (Harold) and Jean Carlson of Rock

Charles Bailey Clarke, 68, chairman of the Cumberland County Commissioners Board, former mayor of Portland, and many years prominent in the business of the city in former years, died early today in the Maine General Hospital after undergoing surgery Monday.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday in the Cathedral Church of St. Luke, with which he was long prominently identified in official capacities. A private requiem mass will be celebrated at 9 a. m., in Emmanuel Chapel in the Cathedral.

Mr. Clarke's long service in the Diocese of Maine included 28 years as treasurer, a service which received recognition on his retiring from the office in 1938. As treasurer he led in the gradual paying off of an indebtedness, his personal efforts being recognized as a big factor in this achievement.

Born at Bangor Oct. 3, 1875, son of Charles Davis and Catherine Dillingham Clarke, he came to this City, with his parents, at the age of two years. At the age of 15 he was forced to leave high school to earn his living, and entered the employ of the Burnham & Morrill Company, which he served in various positions, finally that of treasurer.

Upon entering politics, Mr. Clarke served as councilman and as alderman under the old form of government. He was elected mayor in 1917, and continued in that office for five terms, declining renomination in 1921.

In addition to his service as treasurer of the Episcopal Diocese, Mr. Clarke served on the Standing Committee and the Diocesan Council. He also was a member of the Greater and Lesser Chapters of the cathedral; was senior warden many years, and treasurer of the Maine Episcopal Missionary Society and of the Bishop Robert Codman Fund.

In May, 1932, he was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Board of County Commissioners, and in 1938 was made chairman, a position he held at the time of his death.

He served as receiver for several large corporations; and had been a director of the Canal National Bank since 1906. He was chairman of the Cumberland County Committee of Safety in World War I.

Mr. Clarke was a member of Ancient Landmark Lodge, AF&AM; the Sons of the American Revolution, Descendants of the Mayflower; the Cumberland Club and the Portland Club. He had also served as treasurer of the Children's Protective Society, and was a former treasurer of the Cumberland County Republican Committee.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ellen Abbott Clarke; two daughters, Catherine Clarke Morrison, wife of Col. Douglas Eaton Morrison, USA, now overseas; and Charlotte Clarke Outerbridge, wife of Robert P. Outerbridge of Brookline, Mass.; a sister, Mrs. Philip C. Kilborn of this City, and three grandchildren.

Charles D. Clark

SANFORD, Aug. 5 (Special)—Charles D. Clark, 79, retired machinist of the Sanford Mill's, who made an addition to a loom at the Sanford Mills to produce the first perfect yard of material ever woven there, and who 56 years ago built Sanford's first horseless carriage, died Friday night at the Goodall Hospital.

Mr. Clark was born in Sanford, son of the late Daniel G., and Jane Chase Clark. The horseless carriage built by Mr. Clark was to be operated early in the morning on Main Street before the horses were out on the street.

Mr. Clark, son of the village blacksmith, was mechanically inclined, and when the Goodalls conceived the idea of weaving plush by power. Mr. Clark and the late James Goodall were set to work in a private room to make a machine. This was perfected and used to weave the narrow car plush.

Mr. Clark was one of the founders of the Sanford Unitarian Church and had been a Mason for 56 years, having been awarded the 50-year-medal by Preble Lodge of Sanford. He was a charter member of Sanford Lodge of Elks.

Mr. Clark is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Pearce Clark, to whom he was married 56 years ago in December; one daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Trafton, Sanford, and one sister, Mrs. J. H. Neal of Portsmouth, N. H.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Hurd funeral home, Winter Street, the Rev. H. Sumner Mitchell officiating. Interment will be in Oakdale Cemetery.
