too war-like for them, because they at once shifted over to the Sagadahoc—now the Kennebec River, and built their fort on the west shore.

In September, Captain Gilbert decided to explore the river. He seems to have gone above present-day Augusta, and perhaps into the neighborhood of Winslow, when the Indians came around him again. These Indians were taller and stronger than the coast Indians, and "new-painted" as if for war. But after parley, they seemed more friendly and inclined to Waldoboro, Nov. 21—Dr. George Holden Coombs, 85, widely-known physician and a member of the Maine State Bureau of Health for several years, died late Saturday at the Miles Memorial Hospital, Damariscotta, following an illness of a few days.

Doctor Coombs was born at Brunswick Jan. 7, 1863, the son of David E. and Annie Lee Coombs. He was graduated from the medical department of New York University in 1886, serving his internship in Bellevue Hospital. He began the practice of medicine at Brunswick in 1888, in 1890 he was located in Toledo, O., and the following year he came to Waldoboro.

Here he continued his work until 1920, when he became epidemiologist of the Social Hygiene Division, Department of Health. He was made director of the Bureau of Health in 1932, serving seven years, after which he returned to private practice here.

As a country doctor he traveled on foot, by snowshoes, horse and buggy, motor boat and automobile to reach patients throughout Lincoln County and on islands off the coast.

He was a member of the Knox County, Maine, and American Medical Associations. He had been vice president and president of the Maine group. He was an honorary life member of the Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America.

Three years ago he was honored by Congress with a certificate of merit and selective service medal. He also held a 50-year medal with ten-year bar of the Maine Medical Association, indicating 60-years of medical service.

He was affiliated with King Solomon's Lodge of Mason, Waldoboro, from which he received the 50-year medal, and with the Knights of Pythias at Brunswick.

Doctor Coombs was twice married. His first wife, Gertrude F. Millett, died in 1928. Later he married Elizabeth E. Fossett of this town. Surviving are his widow; a daughter by the first marriage, Mrs. Parker B. Stinson, Augusta; a sister, Miss Jeannette Coombs, West Bowdoin, and two nieces, Miss Mary Coombs, New York City, and Mrs. George Moore, Marlboro, Mass.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Main Street at 2 p. m. Tuesday. The Rev. Chester Duncan, pastor of the Methodist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Central Cemetery.

union official, lifelong sportsman

BATH — Herman F. Coombs, 80, a former union official and a lifelong sportsman, of 37 Meadow Way, died Monday at Mid-Coast Hospital, Brunswick, after a short illness.

PASSAGES

Each day the Press Herald selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Southern Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

In 1940 he got a job as a tinsmith for Bath Iron Works, and in about 1945 helped organize the Independent Union at BIW. He was a shop steward and union president for several years at BIW. He later became the national representative in Maine for the American Federation of Labor, which merged in 1955 with the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

As AFL-CIO national representative he was Born on Isle Au Haut, a son of George and May Jareny Coombs, he grew up on the island and graduated from Stonington High School.

In the 1930s he was a mate on some large pleasure yachts, working for his uncle, Capt. Albert Coombs. While in port at Glen Cove, Long Island, N.Y., he met Ellen Rogers, and they were married in 1934. Mrs. Coombs died in 1990.

Mr. Coombs was a member of Grace Episcopal Church and a life member of the Bath Elks and Polar Star Lodge of Masons.

Surviving are his two sons, George of Manchester and Robert of Bowdoin; three sisters, Evelyn Morse, Hazel Tardiff and Barbara Temple, all of Bath; and two grandchildren.

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in southern Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

He played college baseball and pitched in Triple A professional baseball for many years. While playing for Duke University, he was voted All-Southern and All-American for three years. From there, he signed with the Philadelphia Athletics - now the Oakland Athletics, where he pitched the 1933 season.

During World War II, Mr. Coombs served in the Navy and played for the Bill Dickey All Stars, which consisted of many famous ballplayers.

"He faced Ted Williams once," said his son, Raymond Coombs Jr. "He said he threw him an awful spitter and struck him out.

Born in Lyman, a son of Ernest F. and Winnie Gordon Coombs, he graduated from Kennebunk High School, Exeter (N.H.) Academy in 1929, and from Duke in 1933. At Exeter, he was class president and captain of the baseball, football and track teams.

"He played three sports at Duke," said his son. "You don't often get a guy 5-foot-8 playing basketball for Duke."

Mr. Coombs was a member of Little Falls Baptist Church, South Windham. He attended Ogunquit Baptist Church and was member of the New York Giants Alumni Association and the Masons of Wells.

Since 1947, he operated a private charter fishing boat, "The Gath," during the summer at Perkins Cove.

Surviving are his wife of 61 years, Agatha H. "Gath" Coombs of Ogunquit; a son, Raymond F. Jr. of Salem, N.Y.; two sisters, Ola Maguire and Pauline Coombs, both of Kennebunk; and two grandchildren.
