CORYDON CLAYTON HARDY

FARMINGTON -- Surrounded by his family, Corydon Clayton Hardy, 79, died on June 21 2007, in Farmington.

Cord grew up in Phillips, where he was born on Feb. 27, 1928, the son of Merton and Corace (Worcester) Hardy. He graduated in 1945 from Phillips High School. He attended Dartmouth and Bowdoin Colleges and Boston University as a member of the V-12 Navy Unit, in a training course designed to meet the critical need for men in uniform in the final days of World War II. In 1964 Cord received a bachelor's of science in engineering from the Naval Post Graduate School in Monterey, Calif. Later he graduated from the School of Naval Justice in Newport, R.I., and after retirement he became a certified teacher.

As a young boy, Cord dreamed of becoming an aviator. He took his first flight training at the local airstrip with instructor Dick Raymond and went on to serve 23 years as a Navy aviator and veteran of World War II, the Korean War, and the war in Vietnam. He received his Wings of Gold and commission as ensign in 1949. Cord was ordered to Quonset Point, R.I., where he was a member of an early Navy fighter jet squadron, and he earned distinction as one of the first aviators to launch and land jets aboard an aircraft carrier. Throughout his career, Cord's tours of duty ranged from East to West Coast and Midway Island in the Pacific. He served aboard five aircraft carriers in both fighter and helicopter squadrons. A skilled helicopter pilot, he rescued flood victims in the Pocono Mountains and enabled repairs to the Telstar Radome in Andover. As commander of search and rescue operations on Midway Island, Cord piloted amphibious aircraft to the aid of freighters in distress in the Pacific Ocean. His most hazardous assignment was flying C-130 transports in Vietnam where he was often forced to make dangerous night landings. To avoid enemy detection, he made lights-off, "elevator" style landings. After lowering gear and flaps, Cord could literally drop his C-130, often laden with explosive cargo, onto a landing strip in less than 20 seconds. He wrapped up his final tour of duty instructing young jet pilots, retiring from the Navy in 1968.

Cord returned to his beloved home town in Phillips where he worked as a carpenter selectman and assessor, and flight instructor for the Sandy River Flying Club. He was employed by S.A.D. 58 as a substitute teacher, G.E.D. instructor, and school bus driver. He was the owner of Hardy's Saw Sales. A real "people person," Cord was involved in a number of clubs and associations, including the Phillips Men's Club and North Franklin Snowmobile Club, Phillips Chamber of Commerce, and Conservation Commission. He was a member of Kora Temple and Past Master of Blue Mountain No. 67 Masonic Lodge, and served as commander of American Legion Prescott-Fairbanks Post 64. As a lifetime member of the Flying Midshipmen Association, Cord was a part of a group that successfully lobbied to have active-duty midshipman time considered for pay and retirement benefits for aviators like himself who had flown under the Holloway Program from 1946 to 1951.

Cord enjoyed many hobbies and activities, but hunting and target shooting were his lifelong passions. For as long as he was able, Cord was active during hunting season. He was a member of the Big Bucks Club and had successfully participated in the moose lottery. Renowned as a crack shot, for many years Cord took home the lion's share of prizes from local chicken shoots. He enjoyed reloading his own ammunition and often did the same for other marksmen, reloading rounds to their specifications. In his later years Cord loved having friends and family gathered around for food, drink and conversations and he had a knack for knowing almost everyone, young and old, by name.

He is survived by his wife, Marian; daughter Arolyn Childs and her husband, Larry, of Farmingdale; daughter Dennifer Mayo and her husband, Marty, of Winter Park, Fla.; son Christian and his wife, Julie, of Phillips; three grandchildren, Benjamin, Ansel and Emily his mother, Corace Wing; and sister Anita Morrison.

DONALD E. 'HANK' HARDY SR.

DOVER-FOXCROFT — Donald E. "Hank" Hardy Sr., 84, of Bear Hill Road, Dover-Foxcroft, formerly of Falmouth, died Tuesday night, Dec. 23, 1997, of heart failure, after a struggle with colon cancer. He was born May 6, 1913, in New City, N.Y., a son of Eugene Augustus and Blanche Edna (DeNoyelles) Hardy. He attended New York schools and graduated from Stony Point High School. He studied drafting and mechanical engineering in Lewiston and East Hartford, Conn. Mr. Hardy moved with his family to Amherst in the early 1930's. In his early years, he worked in the woods with his father and brothers, as a logger and wilderness guide. He also did carpenter work in Massachusetts. He married Barbara M. Carpenter on June 5, 1939. Mr. Hardy worked as a carpenter in the South Paris area as a draftsman for Pratt & Whitney in Connecticut and as a boat builder for Hinckley's Boatyard in Manset. He became a machine designer for Fayscott-Landis in Dexter in 1944; 11 years later he went to the Portland Co. in Portland, where he worked for 12 years in the same capacity.

He returned to Fayscott-Landis in 1967 as head of machine design, designing tooling for automotive parts, retiring in 1976. Mr. Hardy loved architectural design, and built several of the homes in which he and his family lived. He was a 50-year member of Penobscot Lodge No. 29, AF & AM of Dexter. An outdoor enthusiast, he enjoyed fishing, watching the wildlife around his Bear Hill home and photographing the outdoors, especially Alaska, for which he had a special passion. He also loved the ocean, as well as boating around Casco Bay. He was immensely proud of his family, who recall his wonderful sense of humor and his enjoyment of music, animals and children. He also enjoyed baseball, both as a participant and as a spectator. A longtime companion was Beverly Anderson of Dover-Foxcroft. Survivors include a son, Donald E. Hardy Jr. of Littleton, Mass.; four daughters, Jane F. Hardy of Hollis Center, Janet L. Tomes of Springhill, Fla., Deborah L. Hardy of Windham and Margaret A. Hardy of Newfield; 12 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, several nieces and nephews. April 3, 1920 - March 3, 1995

During the services this week that attended Albert Harjula's death, we at The Free Press came to learn much more about the man we thought we knew.

Those of us who work here made our acquaintance with Albert through his wife Lois, who has been one of the mainstays of this paper since its inception ten years ago.

Albert was a man who gave generously of himself - to his country and to his community. All the while taking care of their own family, he and Lois, Albert's wife of 51 years, were steadfastly contributing to whatever needed doing.

Albert, like so many of his generation, began giving unselfishly of himself during World War II. He was taken prisoner during the Battle of the Bulge in December 1944 and was awarded the Bronze Star for bravery.

That unselfish dedication continued throughout the rest of his life. He was involved in Boy Scouting for more than 40 years and was a past commander of the Williams-Brazier VFW Post in Thomaston, life member of the Stone-Scott-Watson VFW Post of Friendship, life member of the Rockland DAV, chaplain and honor guard member of his POW organization, past grand of the Warren Lodge of Odd Fellows, and past chancellor commander of Arcana Lodge of Knights of Pythias in Thomaston. He also belonged to the Mayflower Temple Pythian Sisters, Mystic Rebekah Lodge of Warren and the Orient Lodge of Masons in Thomaston. He was a member of the Thomaston Academy board of trustees; a charter member of the restoration of Watts Hall committee; past president of Friends of Montpelier; a life member of the Thomaston Historical Society; held a seventh degree certificate in the Grange; and was past president of the Rockland Teachers Association, the Maine Teachers Association, and the former Thomaston PTA. He received the first Community Service Award presented by the Thomaston Chamber of Commerce, was active with the Thomaston 4th of July Committee, was a charter member of the Finnish-American Society and a member of the Thomaston Federated Church.

One of the people who attended the funeral service remarked, "I had no idea how much Albert had done in his life - I really don't think we'll see many more like him."

PASSAGES

Each day the Press

Herald selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Southern Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

He gave flying lessons to more than 100 people and provided air service to Vinalhaven, North Haven, Matinicus, Crie-haven and Swan's Island. He also spotted schools of herring for area fishermen and piloted photographers and newsmen.

"Any time there was news that required flying, Arthur was my pilot," said James Moore, a friend and a retired Press Herald correspondent.

"I was his first student when he started his flight school here," said Warren George, a TWA airline pilot for 29 years. "Ten percent of the class of 1946 at Rockland High became airline pilots, all from taking lessons from Art. There's so much to flying other than manning the controls. Art got it across to us with very little effort."

During World War II, he lived in Quincy, Mass., where he was an electrician foreman on carriers at the Fore River Shipyard and an instructor on weekends at a local airport.

He was a trustee of the Finnish Congregational Church, a 50-year member of the Knox Masonic Lodge, both of South Thomaston, and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Pilots Association.

Surviving are his wife, Laura Aalto Harjula of Thomaston; two daughters, Sylvia Harjula of Thomaston and Mrs. Paul (Elaine) Kangas of Holiday, Fla.; two brothers, Albert of Thomaston and Elmer of West Palm Beach, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Eino (Ida) Partanen of Cushing; and two grandchildren.

A funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Federated Church. The Revs. Eric Moore, Joseph Brown and Charles Nace will officiate. Spring burial will
