YARMOUTH - Roy A. Jones, 80, former president of the Maine Oil Dealers Association who was active in blindness prevention, died Sunday at a local nursing home.

Mr. Jones was a sales executive for 35 years with Exxon Corp., retiring in 1971. He sold products to smaller oil dealers and his territory included Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Southern Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

He was a past King Lion in the Yarmouth Lions Club, and through that group he was involved in the Maine Sight and the Prevention of Blindness groups.

"He's been very active in the Maine Sight program for many years," said Frank Harrison. The Maine Sight program provides eyeglasses, examinations and medical assistance to the underprivileged. "He was very outgoing, and respected," said Harrison. "For years he would be the person who inducted new members."

"He also helped collect eyeglasses to be sent to foreign countries," said his wife.

He was a member of the Rockland Masons, the Amvets, Exxon Annuitante, the Downeasters Club and the Kora Shrine of Lewiston.

"He was an ambassador in Shrine," said his wife. "He helped children who needed to go to the burn center or the hospital for crippled children. He just loved people."

Mr. Jones enjoyed flying and he had a pilot's license good for flying small planes. He also was a hunter and fisherman, and enjoyed salmon fishing at his summer cottage on Sebec Lake in Piscataquis County.

"For many years he caught salmon every time he went out," said his wife. "Nowadays they have size limits, so he sometimes had to throw them back."

"They were first called Colonial Beacon Oil Co.," said his wife, Rebecca Marsh Jones. "Then they went to Standard Oil of New Jersey, then Humble Oil, then Esso, which is what it was when he retired."

Mr. Jones worked several years during his retirement for the Maine Oil Dealers Association and was managing director of MODA during the 1970s.

Surviving are his wife of 59 years, of Yarmouth; a daughter, Sheila Dobrowski of Portland; three sisters, Ruth Bibber of Harpswell, Vera Finnemore of Norton, Mass., and Leba Armstrong of Waldoboro; a brother, Clarence of Bingham; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A daughter, Nan Jones Kimball, died in 1988.

A funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Lindquist Funeral Home, 37 Portland St. The Rev. Ed Fenderson will officiate. Burial will follow in Riverside Cemetery.

Born in South Solon, a son of W. Scott and Grace Weston Jones, he was a 1932 graduate of Somerset Academy. As a young man he worked at a summer camp in Jefferson where, in 1935, he met and married the former Rebecca Marsh of Sheepscot. During World War II, he served as a military policeman in the Marine Corps.

He lived for 11 years in Augusta and then for 27 years in Cumberland. He moved to 6 Rogers Road here 11 years ago.
