Harry F. Lund

bank-vault custodian, church organist

YARMOUTH — Harry F. Lund, 84, the longtime keeper of the vault at the former Maine National Bank and organist at two churches, died Wednesday at a local nursing home. He formerly lived at 56 Pleasant St. and Oceanview Estates, Falmouth.

Mr. Lund retired in 1976 after more than 30 years as superintendent of the vault in Maine National's main office. "He was always at the same bank," said his son, Harvey Lund, although the bank changed names a few times. Originally it was the National Bank of Commerce, in the Commerce Building at Monument Square. By the end of his career he had moved down the street to run the vault in the former Maine National building on Congress Street at Exchange Street.

PASSAGES

Each day the newspaper selects one obituary and seeks to learn more about the life of a person who has lived and worked in Maine. We look for a person who has made a mark on the community or the person's family and circle of friends in small but lasting ways.

"One of his regulars in the past was the late Percival P. Baxter, a former governor and philanthropist," according to a 1975 Press Herald story about Mr. Lund. "Entrance to the vault boxes was subject not only to keys but to signature for identification purposes. One day Baxter quipped, 'I usually get paid when I sign my name.' The next time Baxter came in, Lund put a penny down beside him and said that was his pay. Baxter said not a word but pocketed the penny."

Mr. Lund was known as the muffin man at the bank, because a couple of times a week he would bring in a batch of his home-baked muffins. "People came from all corners of the bank to sample his wares," said his son.

from all corners of the bank to sample his wares," said his son.

A self-taught organist, Mr. Lund played the organ for 25 years at Falmouth's Foreside Community Church and for 20 years at South Freeport Community Church.

"He got a couple of traffic tickets going from one church to another on Sundays," said his son.

During World War II Mr. Lund served in the Army at Fort Williams in Cape Elizabeth. As the camp organist, he helped out in a stage performance that included Art Carney.

Mr. Lund enjoyed writing letters, and had corresponded with countless people over the years. "He wrote to anybody and everybody, and in great detail," said his son. A collection of his love letters to his wife, Zilphia Wilson Lund, was recently donated to the University of Maine. "I read in one where he was griping about the price of strawberries at 5 cents a pint," said his son.

Born in Nashua, N.H., a son of Henry F. and Helen Wells Lund, he graduated in 1929 from Nashua High School.

He was a member of the Hammond Organ Society, South Freeport Community Church, Leisure Time Activities Group, Portland, and the Hiram Lodge of Masons. He did volunteer work at Brentwood Manor and was a gardener who enjoyed growing roses.

Mrs. Lund died in 1980.

Surviving are his son of South Portland, a daughter, Rebecca McLean of Saco, and five grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in South Freeport Community Church. The Rev. David Pitt will officiate. Arrangements are by Lundquist Funeral Home, 37 Portland St.
