Joseph E. Perry, 51, of Pine Point, prominent in Masonic organizations and two seasons secretary of the Maine Professional Golf Association, collapsed and died in the Riverside Golf Club Thursday afternoon as he was conducting a pro-amateur golf tournament preliminary to the Maine open championship at the club today.

Dr. Forrest C. Tyson of Augusta, one of the tournament competitors, was of the opinion that death occurred from a cerebral hemorrhage with heart disease as a contributing factor.

Perry arrived at the club about noon, ate a light lunch with some of the competitors and began conducting the tournament, as he has such tournaments the past two Summers. At Riverside Thursday he said he had had a great deal of difficulty walking recently and close friends noticed that he appeared not to be in the best physical condition. However, he made no complaint of feeling ill as he took up his tournament duties.

Perry was born at Westbrook, Sept. 22, 1891, son of the late Benjamin and Mrs. Roseanna Perry. He was educated there, worked for a time in Portland, then lived and worked three years, 1922 to 1925, in Detroit, after which he went to Pine Point. He since had resided there.
