FRIENDSHIP — Francis D. Winchenbaugh, 93, a well known wooden boat builder, died June 3, 1981, at his home. Mr. Winchenbaugh was born Sept. 4, 1887, the son of Roscoe and Cora (Genthener) Winchenbach. He was raised on a farm on Dutch Neck, Waldoboro. At the age of 17 he went to work for Wilbur Morse, the originator of the well known Friendship sloop, where he learned the boat building trade. In 1919, he built his own boat shop at Friendship Harbor and until his retirement in 1961, at the age of 74,

For a period during World War II, Mr. Winchenbaugh assisted in the war effort by working on military craft being built and fitted out at Snow's Shipyard in Rockland. Mr. Winchenbaugh was a Mason, a member of the Knights of Pythias and for many years, served on the local school board. He will be remembered for his wide smile and hearty laugh, his fondness for very small children, his love for family and country and his ability to recall in vivid detail events of his boyhood. These stories were usually of a humorous nature and enthralled the listener for hours.

His wife, Nellie (Murphy) Winchenbaugh, died twenty years ago on this day. Visiting hours will be from 7-9 p.m. Thursday at the Hall Funeral Home in Waldoboro. Funeral services will be 2 p.m. Friday at the funeral home with the Rev. Norman Young officiating. Committal services will be held at the Harbor Cemetery, Friendship, weather permitting. In lieu of flowers, it is requested that donations in his memory be sent to the National Arthritis Foundation or the Friendship Ambulance Service.

WATERVILLE — Douglas A. Wing, former circulation manager for the Morning Sentinel, was remembered Tuesday for his dedication to hard work and success in boosting the paper's readership.

Wing died Saturday. He was 88.

"He was a wonderful person," Robert M.

Moorehead, the Sentinel's former general manager, said Tuesday. "It was a real pleasure knowing and working with him and I'm sorry to hear he's gone."

Wing worked for the Sentinel 41 years, starting in 1947 and retiring in 1988. He served as assistant circulation manager for eight years before being named director in 1969.

A native of Waterville and a graduate of Waterville High School, Wing served in the U.S. Army in World War II as a captain in the 75th Infantry Division in Europe.

Moorehead, now of South Paris, started at the Sentinel in 1979, when Wing and then-assistant circulation manager, Robert G. Grenier, were a winning team.

"Those guys were so good in circulating — Dougie and Bob — the whole department," Moorehead said. "Before I left in '89 or '90, we were first in New England in household penetration and third in the U.S. Those guys just had an incredible record in circulation. There was not another paper in New England that could stand up to them."

After Grenier was named circulation director in 1982, Wing stayed on as assistant to Moorehead in the development of a preprint mass mail program and other efforts, including the weekly 55-Plus, for seniors.

Moorehead said he would phone Wing and they would meet for lunch to discuss issues. Wing was a good consultant, he said.

"He was a valuable guy — he knew everything and he knew everybody. It was great to have him around."

Besides having a drive to succeed, Wing had a memorable personality, according to Moorehead.

"He was very effervescent, a very positive, outgoing type of person, always on the upbeat. There is nothing the circulation department couldn't do — that was his attitude. Super positive type of guy."

Robert G. Drake, editor for the Sentinel for 33 years before retiring in 1979, said Wing was always moving around, and always had lots of ideas.

"He led the circulation department through the best years," said Drake, of Vassalboro. "What he was doing was selling papers and he was a good salesman."

For more than 30 years, he served as a municipal court judge and probate court judge for Franklin County. He was president and treasurer of Kingfield Savings Bank until his retirement after 20 years.

An avid farmer, he spent many hours as recently as last summer working on his 100-acre farm on Route 27.

For a number of years, he also operated the Hotel Herbert, built by his father in the center of Kingfield.

He married Inez Gross of Stratton on Sept. 7, 1918. She died in 1966.
